FROM THE PASTOR'S HEART . .

Don't you enjoy being around folks that are happy? I find them uplifting and energizing. They just seem to make me a better person, or at least they make me think things are better. When I meet a dour Christian, I wonder where the joy went. The day that we find Christ (or He finds us really) there is an excitement that comes into our life that is hard to displace. Yet time and circumstances will wear away at this joy and contentment. Unless we revisit daily the work that the Lord has going on in our life, the enemy will erase the smile on our face.

Now, back to my premise. Paula Smith came to speak to us about the work that is sponsored by Mississippi Baptists and taking place in Mississippi. Whenever she gets a chance to speak about missions, the joy that is in her becomes infectious. You see on her face that God is doing something and she has been allowed to be in on it. Service to Christ is a joy. Or more precisely, serving Jesus brings joy.

Serving Jesus produces a joy that shows on our faces, in our speech, in our actions. That alone makes a long-faced Christian a puzzle. When the load is heavy, the circumstances dire, go and find a way to serve the Lord and watch your joy grow, not shrink. When we get out of His service, we get out of His fellowship. When we get out of fellowship with Him, we lose our joy.

Joy is contagious. Go serve Christ and catch it, then pass it along.

In HIS Service

From the Singer...

"I deserve to win the lottery."

"I deserve a better grade on this paper."

"I deserve to have fun all weekend long."

"I deserve to have my order right at the drive through window."

It's amazing what we think we deserve or don't deserve. A lot of people walk around with a sense of entitlement, a feeling that they have something coming to them.

In Matthew 20:1-16, Jesus told the simple story about five groups of workers who were hired to do a job. Some worked twelve hours, while others only worked one. At the end of the day, the landowner paid them all the same amount. Those who worked longer were furious because they felt they were entitled to more even though they agreed at the beginning of the day that their wages were fair.

If you spend your time getting upset over not getting what you deserve, you'll be miserable. Notice the word deserve, the prefix "de" can often mean "the opposite of." So the word deserve could be translated "the opposite of serve." When you have a sense of entitlement, you expect others to serve you. When you gratefully accept what God gives you, you serve others. Big difference! Jesus doesn't want you to wait for others to serve you, but to take the initiative to serve others.

Let's forget about what we deserve and focus on others and what we can do to serve them and serve God.

YOUTH TALK . . .

Well I hope everybody had a great weekend. I had a very blessed Sunday at church. Over the last three weekends I have been able to be with my sister, Amy, as she prayed to ask Jesus to be Lord and Savior of her life, as she walked down the aisle in church to profess that faith and ask to be baptized, and finally as she was baptized. Being able to baptize my own sister is truly a blessing I'll never forget! I tell you all this to try and encourage you in regard to your own family. I understand the difficulty that is there in trying to witness to family members. For some reason, the ones we love the most are the most difficult to tell about the most important thing there is to tell. But I can also say that there is also the most wonderful feeling to hear a family member say those words, "Lord, forgive me. I give you my life." To lead anyone to the Lord is the most amazing experience, but there is something extra special in it being your family. So if you have a family member that you know is lost, do not give up! I know it's hard but talk to them. Keep trying... keep showing them the love and life that you have in Christ. Every minute spent praying and talking to that person - even the times that don't result in their praying to receive Christ - is worth that moment that they finally do give it all to Jesus!
